

David Banks

David Banks was the Chief Operating Officer (COO) of IRP Solutions. Banks has 20+ years of Information Technology experience, including Big 4 consulting with Fortune 500 and start-up companies.

Banks has personally developed several major client relationships at the federal, state and local level and established IRPs Law Enforcement Advisory Board and Investigations Center of Excellence.

In addition, he served 11 years, as the Chairman of the Board & CEO for a non-profit corporation where he managed business and financial operations with budgets upwards of $500,000.

Banks has held positions of Director of Information Technology, Corporate Data Manager, Enterprise Data Architect and Database Administrator.

Banks enlisted in the U.S. Navy with his sights fully-focused and his heart determined to enter the Naval Aviation Cadet (NAVCAD) Program to become an aviator. In the Navy, Banks selected the job of Air Traffic Controller while preparing to take the Officer Candidate Test and Flight Aptitude Test for his acceptance into NAVCAD. Banks quickly distinguished himself at the Naval Air Traffic Control School, when he became one of two students in the history of the school to score 100% on the entrance exam. Banks earned an AWT Certification, graduating first in his class. The Chief of Naval Operations closed the NAVCAD and even though Banks enjoyed the Navy he decided to leave it to pursue a career in the information technology field.

Banks built his information technology career in a combination of full-time and contract consulting positions, specializing in data architecture, design and corporate data management working for companies such as United Launch Alliance, Accenture and Oak Ridge National Laboratory/Department of Homeland Security (DHS). Banks was given the opportunity to work with Gary Walker, his brother-in-law, to build the world's best criminal investigations software. Helping to build IRP Solutions and the Case Investigative Life Cycle (CILC) product was the apex of his career and one of the most satisfying experiences of his life.
